DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Claims 21, 25-54 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim.

Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 7 July 2005.

Specification

The abstract is objected to for the term "comprises" in line 1. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "comprises", "means" and "said," should be avoided in the abstract.

The lengthy specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 4, 5, and 22-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ono (US 6,701,110).

Ono discloses an image forming apparatus including an image bearing member (202) on which a latent image is formed; a plurality of developing devices (221-224) for developing the latent image, each of the developing devices containing developer; and a turnable turning member (203) on which the plurality of developing devices (221-224) are mounted.

A standby position can be set according to the frequency of use of monochrome and color (col. 3, lines 18-22), which reads on the turning member (203) is caused to turn based on a turn history of the turning member (203).

Regarding claim 4, each of the developing devices (221-224) does not have a stirring member.

Regarding claim 5, the frequency of use of monochrome or color copies must be recorded by either the number of that type of medium that has been output or a number of times of turns of the turning member.

Regarding claim 22, figure 3 shows a computer-readable storage medium having recorded thereon a program for controlling the image forming apparatus.

Regarding claim 23, a computer system may be connected to the image forming apparatus. See External I/F, figure 3.

Regarding claim 24, the image forming apparatus also reads on a method for forming an image with an image forming apparatus.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 2 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ono (US 6,701,110) in view of Shimura (US 6,889,915).

Ono disclose the image forming apparatus above but are silent as to the details of developing devices (221-224).

However, Shimura discloses a similar image forming apparatus including developing devices (4K,Y,M,C) as shown in figure 3, each of which have two containers, and when the turning member (4) is caused to turn the developer in the containers is mixed. As shown in figure 1, the developer supplying section of each developing device (4K,Y,M,C) is at a lower portion when the developing device is position in the developing position.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the image forming apparatus of Ono with the developing device of Shimura. The suggestion for doing so would have been that the construction of the developing device allows all of the developer to reach the developing roller without the use of a stirring member, reducing the cost of the apparatus.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 20 is allowed.

Claims 6-19 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Other Prior Art

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Nagamine et al. (US 6,349,183) disclose a rotary image forming apparatus including a toner supply history storage means.
